Developmental Models and Milestones for Civic Learning

This leadership opportunity will provide invited guests the chance to help shape our collective knowledge of civic learning models and milestones, while also affording guests a valuable opportunity to deepen their understanding of current practices and associated outcomes.

Invited guests will collectively strive to tease out the practices, processes, cost structures, while also providing evidence of implications for faculty, students, institutional mission, and long-term community partnerships.

KEY ELEMENTS OF FOCUS FOR THE 2015 LEADERSHIP SUMMIT

- Selection of student candidates
- Links across academic years and disciplines
- Clarity and shared buy in for articulated developmental trajectory
- Budgetary issues, scholarships, workstudy, management ratios
- Issues of inclusion/equity in planning
- Integrated role for community partners
- Impact: student engagement and retention, shared oversight/governance, enhancing community partner successes / capacity building, cost value, public issue career choice, institutional brand and mission synergy

ANTICIPATED RESULTS OF SUMMIT

- Summit sponsors will synthesize participants' contributions into a publication and online resource
- Summit sponsors intend to offer support to assist campuses use of developmental models and milestones, for example, Bonner Foundation and Campus Compact trainings
- Based on strength of emerging themes and replicable practices, Campus Compact will plan to hold a follow up event on a national scale
